

Parador de Baiona

The Parador:

This stunningly situated medieval fortress stands high on a rocky promontory above the Atlantic, guarding the mouth of the inlet that takes ships past the Islas Cies and up the river to the port of Vigo. The Parador itself is situated in the Manor house within the Fortress' walls and strives to capture its noble history. The historic fishing town of Baiona itself traces its history back some two thousand years, and on 1 March 1493 Columbus's ship the Pinta returned here from America, bringing with it the first news of the New World. It is still a popular spot with sailors, and many yachts use the marina.
