

Parador de Nerja

The Parador:

The modern Parador de Nerja stands in the midst of green cliff-top gardens above the golden beaches and azure sea of the Costa Tropical, about 60 km to the east of Málaga. The coast around Nerja, with its coves and sandy beaches nestling beneath cliffs, is a paradise for lovers of sun and sea, and the area is particularly popular with scuba divers. With the dramatic mountains of the Sierra de Almijara rising behind the coast, Nerja is also proving a popular centre for walkers, while the Nerja Caves, with their prehistoric paintings and spectacular rock formations, are one of the most visited sites in Spain.
