

Parador de Toledo

The Parador:

This beautiful stone-built mansion, with wooden balconies, a garden and an outdoor pool, stands on the Cerro del Emperador ('Emperor's Hill') – 4 km outside the city - with stunning views across to the historic hill-top city of Toledo, already a Celtic stronghold when the Romans took it, and now a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Particularly prominent in the view from the Parador is the Moorish fortress, and also the cathedral, noted for its paintings by Rubens, Bellini, Titian and El Greco. The Parador takes its name, 'Hotel Conde de Orgaz', from the famous painting by El Greco, The Burial of Count Orgaz, which is in the Church of Santo Tome in Toledo.
