

POUSADA PALÁCIO DE QUELUZ

This magnificent blue and white (Baroque Pousada (repainted in late 2017) was formerly used by the Royal Guard of the Court while resident at the National Palace of Queluz, known as 'the Portuguese Versailles'. The Pousada, opposite the palace and only twenty minutes taxi ride from the centre of Lisbon, has been beautifully renovated and retains a charming small theatre which would have been used for private performances, complete with gilded balcony and armchairs. The rooms are comfortable and of a good size, and the bar and lounge area are very homely. The Pousada's dining room, the "Cozinha Velha" Restaurant, is quite exceptional and located across the square, in what was the original kitchen of the palace with its bread oven and magnificent stone table. We highly recommend the restaurant here either for a proper lunch or a romantic dinner. The restaurant also has a lovely terrace area overlooking the orange trees of the gardens - perfect for enjoying a drink in the sunshine.
